

PROJECT

Demolition of outside wc with new single storey extension to create a dining room off the kitchen.

DESIGN SUMMARY

The existing house is Victorian with a small long galley kitchen, typical of houses of that age situated within the City of Oxford.

The client wished to re-order the kitchen, create a larger dining area with views and links out to the garden and relocate the wc internally.

The design incorporates a large glazed screen to the rear of a single storey extension with a vaulted roof. Externally, it matches the style of the Victorian villa.

A simple extension that resulted in a marked improvement in how the kitchen, dining and garden related to each other easing their use for the owner.
